The small organ piece is almost a gem and easy to play without pedal, but requires 2 manuals.

The solo part in the right hand is usually easier to accentuate on romantic organs with full-sounding solo 8-foot flute than with baroque alignment of the instrument. Here the 8-foot position has to be doubled for the solo part. If the range of the keyboard is not high enough, both hands can be played one octave lower in 4 feet. However, only in this case you need a gentle 8-foot (or 16-foot, then a 1 Oct. higher played) pedal for the final chord.
