The appealing little organ piece actually needs a coupled swell to the main one. Of course, it can be played without one with some restrictions, but it should have two manuals. The original prompt above the tenor part in measure 23 reads "en dehors", i.e. set apart from the rest of the sound. However, because of the bass voice interjecting only short notes, it is quite possible to play the right hand alone on the quieter work until it returns to the other keyboard from measure 27.
