Fair young man
If you'll wed with me tomorrow I will kind and constant be.

I will buy you sheets and blankets, I'll buy you a wedding ring
You shall have a silver cradle for to rock the baby in.

Johnny Todd came home from sailing, sailing on the ocean wide
And he's found his fair and false one was another sailor's bride.

All young men who go a sailing for to fight the foreign foe
Do not leave your own true love like Johnny - marry her before you go.

Johnny Todd - Yes, the brides are flighty. The young sailor has quickly become engaged to his beloved before leaving. Then another comes running to her and promises to buy her beautiful things. She should only marry him already tomorrow. She does, and when her (former) fiancé comes back from the long voyage, she has a confession to make to him ...
