

Dhammapada Settings

Colin McKellar

musicalion

click for more

Dhammapada Settings

2

Colin McKellar

vs.21 watchfulnes is the path of immortality unwatchfulness is the path of death.

3 Those who are watchful never die those who do not watch are already as dead.

5 vs.37 Hidden in the mystery of conciousness ,

6 the mind, far awa- y

7 Those who se-t their mind in har - mon - y become free from the bonds of death.

9 vs.39 He whose mind in calm self control is free from the ³ lust of desires, who has risen above good and evil, he is a-wake and has no fear.

10

11

he is a-wake and has no fear.

Vs 43 A father or mother, or relative, can 13

indeed do good to a ⁵ man ;

But his own right directed mind can do to him

15

a far greater g

esse-nce of a flower

musicalion
click for more

17

and flies a-way with out de - stroy-ing

it's bueat-y and perf - ume,

19

so let the sage wa-an de er in this life.

Vs 54 The per-fume of flowers goes not a-against the e wind, 21

notev ensan-dal wood, of rose bay, or of jas-mine; but the perf-ume of vir-tue tacit trav-ells a-against the wind and reach-es un-to the ends of the world.

23

25

Vs.57 The path of those who are rich in vir - tue , who are ev - er watch - ful , whose true ligi. MA-RA, by death.

27

29

Vs.62 These are my sons this is my wealth" In this way the fool troub-les him-self . tacit

31

He is not ev-en the own-er of him-self: how much less of his sons and of his wealth!

33
Vs.63 If a fool can see his own foll - y, he in this at least is wise;

34
but the fool_ who thinks he is wise, he in-deed is the real fool.

36
Vs.70 fool may fast month aff - er month eat - ing his food

37 with the sharp a grass,

musicalion
click for more

38 and his worth not be a six-teēnth part part of that of the wise

39 man whose thoughts feed on truth. Vs.72 tacit And if ev - er to his 42 own harm the fool in-creas-es in clev-er- ness, this on-ly de- stroys his own mind

46 and his fate is worse than be- fore. Vs. 80 Those who make chan-nells

49
for wat-er con- trol the wat- ers; the mak-ers of ar-rows ma-ake the ar-rows straight

53
car-pen-ty the wise con-trol

musicalion
click for more

56
their own mi-i nds. Vs. 81 Ev-en as a great rock is not shak-en by the wind, the wise man

59 is not shak-en by praise or by blame. Vs. 84 He who for him self or oth-ers

62

craves not for sons or power or wealth, who puts not his own suc-cess

65

be fore the suc-cess of right-eous-ness, he is vir-tue-ous

68 and right-eous, and wise Vs 86 But those who when they know the law

71

foll-ow the path of ti go be-yond the realm of death. Vs 134 If you can be in sil-ent quiet-ness like a brok-en gong

74

78 that is sil-ent, you have reached the peace of Nir-van-a and your ang-er

83 is peace. Vs. 145 Those who make chann-ells for wat-er cont-rol the wat-ers; mak-ers of arr-ows make the arr-ows straight; car-pen-ters con-trol thier timb-er;

3

86

3

89

and the hol-y con-trol thier soul. Vs. 153 tacit I have gone round i- in vain

3

93

the cyc-les of man- musicalion click for more uid-er of the house of life and death. How great is the sor-row of life that must die! tacit

3

96

99

But now I have seen thee, house-build-er: nev-er more shalt thou build this house.

101

The raft-ers of sins are brok-en, the ridge pole of ig-nor-ance is dey-stroyed.

105

The fev-er of crav-ing is past: for my mor-tal mind has gone to the joy of the im-mor-tal NIRVAN A. On-ly a man him-sef can be the mas ter of him-selh. his ma-as-ter?

108

111

113

When the Mass-ter and ser-vant are one, then there is true help and self-possess-ion. Let no man en-dang-er his dut-y, the good of his soul, 121

117

for the good of an-oth-er, how ev-er gre-eat. When he has seen the good of his soul,

124

let him fol-low it with earn-est-ness. Vs When a man con-sid-ers

128

this world as a bub-ble of froth, and as the ill-uss-ion

131 of an app-ear-ance, am. Vs 183 tacit BLUES FEEL 135

Do not what is ev-il. Do what is good. Keep your mi-nd pure.

141

This is the teach-ing of Budd-ha. Vs 186 blues feel

Type: Sheet music

Título: Dhammapada Settings \(Part 1\)

Compositor: Colin McKellar

Época: Música viva

Tema: .Misceláneas

Categoría: Obras de cámara

Dificultad: Mittel

Instrumentación Grupo: Voz sola con un instrumento

Arrangement: Solo>sop+Piano

Instrumentación: Canto solo>soprano(1),Piano = Pno(1)